Central Queensland's underground locating specialists

GeoRadar Australia is a locally owned, family-operated underground asset management and vacuum excavation company, established in 2008. We locate, expose and map the cables, pipes and services hidden beneath your site, so every dig is a safe one.

Operating from three branches in Bundaberg, Rockhampton and Emerald, we support civil, construction, mining, utility and government clients right across the region. Our Dial Before You Dig accredited locators combine current locating technology with local knowledge of the ground, the networks and the asset owners.
